

SCHOOL PHILOSOPHY

Shaping the lives of young people as God would have them to be is the basis for the existence of Knoxville Christian School and Knoxville Christian School Home School Program. God's Word is the best source of information on how this can best be achieved. Behavioral change based on precepts taught in the Bible is a major goal of our program.

It is recognized that respect for authority is a fundamental principle that must be learned. The student learns to respect God as the supreme authority on life and living. Parents are encouraged to teach Jesus as God's Son who made salvation possible for fallen man. Obedience to His teachings will provide for a richer life here and eternal life hereafter. Because man is created in the image of God, students should also be taught respect for every person regardless of his social, economic, ethnic, and physical circumstances.

KCS Home School Program encourages more than mediocrity. A student is encouraged and challenged to develop his/her abilities to the fullest extent possible and use them for the glory of God and the good of his fellow man. The academic requirements must enable a student to be successful in further educational pursuits that are in keeping with his/her abilities. Standards higher than the Tennessee State standards are the expectation of KCS Home School Program.
